THE QUESTION OF IMMIGRATION

The House Entered on a Two Days Debate of it Yesterday.

Mr. Stone, of Pennsylvania, Explained His Bill Restricting Immigration—Mr. Buck, of Louisiana, Argued Effectively Against Restriction—The District of Columbia Appropriation Bill Passed the Senate With Provisions of a Secular Character.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The House today entered upon a two days debate of the immigration bills reported from the immigration committee. W. A. Stone, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Tracewell, of Indiana, argued for a restrictive measure; Mr. Corliss, of Michigan, for his bill designed to put an end to Canadian competition with American labor, and Mr. Morse, of Massachusetts, and Mr. Bartholdt, of Missouri, for the educational test bill. The feature of the debate to-day was the plea of Mr. Buck, of Louisiana, against any sort of restrictive legislation beyond that now on the statute books which excluded paupers and criminals.

Before the debate began a resolution was adopted instructing the sergeant-at-arms to summon the clerks of the counties in the Sixteenth district of Illinois for the purpose of recounting the ballots in the Rinkner-Dowling contest.

The title of Mr. Owens, of Kentucky, to his seat was confirmed and Messrs. Steele (Ind.), Cousins (Ia.), and McClelland (N. Y.), were appointed on the board of visitors to West Point.

W. A. Stone (Rep., Pa.) the author of the Stone bill, explained its provisions and advocated its passage. The country, he argued, had long suffered from unreasonable immigration. The immigration for the last ten years had exceeded the natural increase.

Mr. Bartholdt challenged this statement, contending that the natural increase was 1,000,000 a year, while the immigration had averaged only about a quarter of a million a year.

Mr. Stone said that during the hard times of the past three years immigration had fallen off, but with the prospect of returning prosperity and high wages it would increase to startling proportions. He did not oppose immigration as long as we could assimilate the foreigners, but they were coming too fast. In places in his own State there were localities where the English language was not spoken and where English newspapers were not read.

Our laws were neither understood nor respected. His bill would transfer the inspection system from our ports to the ports from which the immigrants sailed. He had read two letters, one from Mr. Hitt, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, and one from Charles Emory Smith, formerly minister to Russia, testifying to the feasibility of his bill. He admitted, when questioned closely, that the immigrants might have difficulty in furnishing the evidence necessary to obtain consular certificates.

Mr. Corliss (Rep., Mich.) submitted an argument in favor of his bill for the exclusion of foreigners who crossed our frontiers each year to compete with American labor. He read the testimony of inspection agents and others along the Canadian border as to the evil effects of the annual influx of the Canadian "birds of passage."

Mr. Morse (Rep., Mass.) favored the McClelland bill. He said that there was a strong demand in the country for radical legislation to restrict immigration and that Congress could not afford to disregard it.

Mr. Buck (Dem., La.) a naturalized German, opposed the restriction of immigration in an eloquent speech. If there was anybody who valued American citizenship, said he, it was the foreign-born citizen who held citizenship, not as a right but as a privilege. The American republic was founded on a spirit of the broadest humanity. America for the world, as Washington and Jefferson taught, was what he wanted.

America was big enough to take all who would come. The educational test, it was proposed to impose was, he argued, an insidious proposition. But knowledge would be no more of a protection now than in the days of Eden.

"Have not some of the Southern States adopted educational tests in their constitutions to prevent native born Americans from voting?" asked Mr. McCall (Rep., Tenn.).

"The right to vote is one thing," replied Mr. Buck. "The right to come to these shores to work is another. I care not what political conventions may say. I am now speaking my convictions."

At 5 p. m. the House adjourned.

Senate Proceedings.

The Senate passed to-day the District of Columbia appropriation bill carrying approximately $7,300,000. A debate on the question of appropriations for sectarian purposes cropped out on the paragraph making appropriations for charities in the District. On a vote the Senate sustained the committee in providing specific appropriations for numerous private charitable institutions, some of them of a sectarian character.

Mr. Bacon (Dem., Ga.) offered a resolution, which was referred, for the loan of exhibits from the various Government departments and Smithsonian Institution to the Southern States exposition at Chicago from August to November, 1896.

The House amendment fixing the pension of the widow of Gen. Thomas Ewing at $75 was agreed to.

The item for charitable institutions in the District of Columbia appropriation bill brought out some general debate on the sectarian question. The House provision gave a sum in bulk for charitable purposes, providing that no part of the appropriation should be paid to institutions under sectarian control.

The Senate committee amended the section so as to give specific appropriations to numerous institutions, including some of a sectarian character, with a proviso that no part of the appropriations shall be paid for aiding or maintaining by payment for service or otherwise, any church or religious denomination.

MEXICO FOR CUBA.

Attempt to Mob a Spaniard at the Capital Yesterday.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 19.—The question of Cuba, coupled with hatred of the lower classes here for the Spaniards, was the cause of a lively riot in one of the outer wards last night.

A drunken man passing a match factory made offensive demonstrations against the owner of the factory—a Spaniard—shouting "Death to Spaniards."

When the Spaniard, thinking the man was about to draw a knife, hit him, a mob gathered, shouting: "Death to Spaniards" and "Cuba libre," and then began stoning the factory and smashing the windows.

The police were telephoned for and soon Gen. Carbellada and his adjutants arrived, when the mob stoned them slightly wounding the general. The police dispersed the mob, arresting fourteen persons.

BOIES FOR PRESIDENT.

The Iowa Convention Will be For Him and Silver.

DUBUQUE, Ia., May 19.—The fight between the gold and silver factions, which has been expected at to-morrow's State Democratic convention, seems tonight to have been practically settled in advance.

The gold standard delegates held a conference this evening and practically gave up the contest, though many favored a bolt.

Ex-Governor Boies was given an ovation on his arrival to-day. Boies badges are seen everywhere and talk in lobbies is all of him as Presidential candidate.

Figures given out to-night as showing the relative strength of the factions in the convention are: Silver, 663; gold standard, 257.

CALVARY CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED

The Handsome Church Edifice at Last Completed.

The Building Cost Over $25,000 and is Built After the Most Modern and Approved Style—History of the Church and How the Congregation Has Labored For the Success of Their Plans.

To-night the dedication services of Calvary Baptist Church will begin and last throughout the week. The building is a magnificent edifice and the congregation has erected it at a cost of more than $25,000.

The church was organized in January, 1891, with thirty-one members. Many of these are still members of the church, and are some of our most successful business men. Their place of worship for several months was in an upper room on Salem avenue.

Rev. Dr. C. F. James, now the president of Roanoke Female College at Danville, was supply pastor. The hot summer weather forced the congregation to erect a temporary tabernacle, which stands at present by the side of the new church. In this they worshipped for more than three years. Rev. Dr. R. Acree was their first pastor. Under his leadership they made great progress. In two years' time the membership grew to over 250.

Plans were arranged for building a handsome church edifice, but, owing to the unprecedented financial depression, work was suspended for about two years, after digging a foundation and purchasing much valuable material. Dr. Acree, after serving the church for two years and greatly endearing himself to the whole community, left to accept a call to the First Baptist Church of Knoxville, Tenn. The young church was not discouraged, though they had lost such a faithful leader.

Plans at once resulted in securing the pastoral care of their present pastor, Rev. Dr. Broughton, who has now been with them two and a half years. He came from the Broad Street Baptist Church of Winston, N. C., where he had been for eighteen months, during which time he had enlarged the seating capacity of his church and was preaching to the largest regular congregation in the city. While in Winston the same character of preaching and energy of work which has characterized his labors here was the main secret of his success, it being entirely independent and free from ecclesiastical restrictions.

Upon entering his work here he at once began the agitation of a church building. From the first it was evident that a large and commodious auditorium would be needed to accommodate the large congregations. Many of the wisest heads in the church and city said it could not be done in these the most stringent times ever known, but the young courageous band, like Napoleon's army, said: "We'll trust our leader." So the work was begun and pushed forward.

January 1, 1893, they entered their large lecture room amid great rejoicing and many congratulations not being yet satisfied, Br. Broughton said: "Let's finish." For a long time they discussed the matter pro and con, and finally a conditional gift from S. E. Bonaack of $2,500 cash, was made, the condition being that the pastor raise in and out of the church the remaining amount necessary to complete, which has been about $3,000. The offer was accepted and the work let to contract, which is now completed, and as it stands is the most handsome church edifice in the city.

The architecture of the church is of modern style with but little external ornamentation, the attractiveness being reserved for the interior. On entering one is impressed with the large vestibules, giving quick exit. The main auditorium is sixty-five by eighty-five feet, the walls being twenty feet high, while to the crest of the roof is fifty feet from the floor. The ceiling is supported by five handsomely carved arches finished in natural wood, and the wainscoting around the entire auditorium harmonizes with the arches in color and style. Over the front entrance is a gallery with a seating capacity of about 150 people, which is entered from one of the vestibules. To the east of the gallery and under the tower is the pastor's study.

The church as it now stands has a seating capacity in the main auditorium, without extra chairs or pecking, of 900. The floor is carpeted with 574 yards of fine Brussels carpet, and the vestibules are covered with linoleum. The seats are known as pew divans, having paw back with assembly chair sittings that roll back, with hat rack, etc., attached. This is something new in this part of the country, and enables the church to seat about 150 more people than with the ordinary pews.

The choir is situated on a platform to the left of the pulpit, and there is a large organ recess in which a pipe organ is soon to be built. The pulpit furniture is something new. Instead of the old-fashioned high chair backs, the chairs are of the heaviest upholstery, matching the carpet and other fixtures, each of the three pieces different from the other in style, size and color. The pulpit itself is of antique oak, with a Bible stand, two flower stands, and handsome communion table to match. The pulpit furniture was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Stewart. A set of silver collection plates artistically engraved have been donated by the Eutaw Place Baptist Church, of Baltimore.

The baptistry, which is immediately to the right of the pulpit, is a unique feature. The stone coping around the top is of pure white marble. On one end is an open Bible, and on the other a cross and crown, while across the front appear these words, "One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism." This was done by J. T. Brown, the marble man, of this city, and is a creditable piece of work.

Leading to the baptistry are the two robing rooms, which are fitted up especially for the purpose for which they are intended. The church is equipped with complete sanitary arrangements, both up and down stairs. It is heated by the latest improved steam-heating apparatus.

There are fifteen windows to light the main auditorium, one of which is of stained glass, the work of George W. Cunningham and Ed. Biglow, who deserve special mention for their artistic work.

At night the church will be lighted by fifteen chandeliers, which will drop from the carved beams supporting the ceilings. These chandeliers are of figured glass and antique brass and are arranged for gas and electricity.

The furnishings of the auditorium are of natural wood handsomely carved and are from the works of the Central Manufacturing Company, a home industry. The plans were drawn and superintended by H. H. Huggins, architect, of this city.

The basement, which for over a year has been a place of worship for the congregation, has been divided into class rooms for the Sunday-school and can still be thrown into one auditorium when desired for lectures or church meetings.

In concluding this sketch of the enterprise in which all Roanoke should rejoice, it is fitting to state that too much credit cannot be given to Roanoke's liberal-hearted citizen, E. H. Stewart, whose enthusiasm and benevolence in the early history of the church contributed greatly toward the culmination of their plans.

Mention ought also to be made of W. E. Deaton, who was largely instrumental in reviving the hope, when everybody else's hope had almost flown. It would not do to leave out the names of the present building committee, with J. A. Pilcher, chairman, whose practical knowledge of mechanics and thorough business qualifications, together with his consecration to his Master's work and love for his church has done more than any other one man. The other members of the committee who have assisted in this work, are B. A. Jones, Chas. Lunsford and G. C. Jones.

Last, but not least by any means, is the work of the ladies, for without them the church could not have been built. The sacrifices they have made will live in eternity.

THE URUAN INCIDENT.

Not Yet Closed, But Negotiations Are Proceeding.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Notwithstanding reports from Caracas to the contrary, it can be stated that the celebrated Uruan incident has not yet been closed and that no indemnity has yet been paid by Venezuela to Great Britain. Negotiations are proceeding, however, through the German minister at the Venezuelan capital, but so far it has not been possible to arrange the terms of the indemnity.

The difficulty appears to lie, not in the refusal of Venezuela to pay an indemnity, but in the avoidance of a recognition in the payment of all language that by any possibility might be construed into an admission of British title to the Uruan country, where the incident occurred.

TWO BISHOPS FINALLY ELECTED

By the Methodist Conference at Cleveland Yesterday.

Dr. C. C. McCabe, of New York, Elected on the Fifteenth Ballot, and Dr. Cranston on the Sixteenth—Dr. Homer Eaton Elected Book Agent For New York—Other Elections Postponed Until To-day.

CLEVELAND, O., May 19.—Bishop Bowman presided over the M. E. general conference for the second time to-day. The reading of the journal had just been completed when Rev. C. L. Stafford, of Iowa, moved to postpone indefinitely the election of bishops.

Dr. J. M. Buckley opposed the motion. Dr. J. R. Mace, of New Jersey, favored the motion to postpone indefinitely the election. Rev. C. D. Hills, of New Hampshire, presented a substitute, which provided that if no election should result on the fourteenth ballot the five highest ones shall be voted for on the fifteenth ballot and one dropped after every ballot until an election resulted. Bishop Bowman ruled this out of order.

The fourteenth and fifteenth ballots were then taken and at the latter C. C. McCabe, of New York, was elected.

The wildest scene then followed. Delegates stood yelling and waving handkerchiefs. Calls for "McCabe," "Song" and "Speech" rose from all parts of the hall, and as Dr. McCabe walked down the aisle, the demonstration was repeated, but Dr. McCabe begged to be excused from saying or singing anything.

The sixteenth ballot was soon announced, resulting in the election of Dr. Cranston as the second bishop. In all 504 votes were cast, making 336 necessary for a choice. Of these Cranston received 366, thus electing him by 30. The conference went wild again and cheers filled the hall.

The conference took up the election of two book agents for New York and Dr. Homer Eaton, of Troy, N. Y., was elected. After taking the first vote on the Cincinnati concern and the second on New York the conference adjourned. Both votes will be announced in the morning.
